Anti-Party Party Manifesto

A party in our universe is spreading and reduces the notion of party as solely a-part of your waking perceptions. The anti-party Party reclaims our time and shared experiences in joyful, challenging experiences and stories shaped towards global collective consciousness around the unifying idea of party as life. Always working, always on vacation reclaims the notion of work removed from labour which is extractive and back to work as generative. In our anti-party party universe everyone works finding value through growth in the pores of our porous terrarium. Workers before and workers after cultivating the structure through which the environment forms the ecosystem. Working during the parties ensuring the system of relations between people is healthy and intentional. The system of releasing and exerting pressures in line with the motion and movement of our dancing feet and united heart-beats. The anti-party party demonstrates transparent values through upholding principles of self-love, resourceful living and fun through feelings. Just like our ecologically minded forefathers didn't have a separate word for art because all is art, we reclaim party as life. The resurfacing of this idea in Anti-Art surrealists of the immediate post WW1 ideological vacuum reclaimed the power of the artist by using found objects elevating this art through their work and not their labor. Anti party party intentionally practice anti party practices in order to expand the time for our shared experiences in party to ensure we are always working and always on vacation. Collective consciousness is just a party away.
